25X1

1. The airfield, about 2x3 km, was southwest of Kuznetsk (46°37' E/53°8' N), Penza Oblast, south of the railroad line. Three adjacent hangars were on the northern edge of the field. There were no runways or railroad connections.
2. The air force quarters were west of the railroad station, north of the railroad line. They consisted of six wooden cantonment buildings, one stone building for officers, and workshops for the repair of aircraft engines. They were stocked with oil and lubricating grease.
3. The field was occupied by an estimated 400 to 500 men, mostly pilot students, and 18 to 20 single-engine fighters with in-line and radial engine.
4. Individual flights, mostly for spraying insecticides over the woods along the Volga River, were made. Formation flying or parachuting was not observed.
